

CALM & CONFIDENT SEL SERIES

One Breath, One Step

A Classroom Calm Kit - Group Breathing, Calm Breaks & SEL
Routines for Any Class

Written by Daniel Tesfamariam

Ages 5-17 - Printable

Home - Classroom - Counseling - Calm Corners

Reproducible for one home or classroom

How to Use This Book

Welcome! This book helps kids and teens understand big feelings and learn calm, kind ways to handle them. Feelings are not good or bad - they are messengers. This book builds the skills to listen to them and choose what to do next.

Every page is printable and reproducible for your home or classroom. Go at the reader's pace, and celebrate effort more than 'right answers.'

For Grown-Ups

- ☐ Do the activities alongside the child when you can - your calm helps them feel safe.
- ☐ Name feelings out loud together; naming a feeling helps shrink it.
- ☐ Never punish a feeling. Coach the choice that comes after it.
- ☐ Revisit favorite pages often - skills grow with practice, not one-time reading.

Tip: There are no wrong answers here. Every feeling is okay. What matters is what we choose to DO with big feelings.

Grows With the Reader (Ages 5-17)

This book is built for a wide range of ages. Younger children can color, trace, and point to feelings faces. Older kids and teens can use the same pages for journaling, deeper reflection, and building real coping plans.

Younger (about 5-9)

- ☐ Color the feelings faces and calm-down pictures.
- ☐ Trace the calming words and short affirmations.
- ☐ Do the breathing shapes with a grown-up.

Older kids & teens (about 10-17)

- ☐ Write in the journal and reflection spaces.
- ☐ Work through the 'What would you do?' scenarios.
- ☐ Build and personalize your own coping toolkit and calm-down plan.

What's Inside

- 1 Getting to Know Feelings
- 2 Whole-Class Calm
- 3 Breathing & Movement Breaks
- 4 Making Calm Choices Together
- 5 Calm & Reflect
- 6 Class Calm Plan
- 7 Gratitude

Using This Classroom Kit

This kit gives you ready-to-use, low-prep calm routines for the whole class. Use a breathing break to start the day, reset after recess, or settle nerves before a test. Every page is reproducible and works for a wide age range - simplify the language for younger students and add reflection for older ones.

Quick tips

- ☐ Do the routines WITH students - your calm sets the tone.
- ☐ Keep breaks short (1-3 minutes) and predictable.
- ☐ Post a class feelings chart where everyone can see it.
- ☐ Praise effort and calm choices, not just quiet.

Part 1: Getting to Know Feelings

Every feeling has a name and a message.

Faces We Make

Color each face. Say the feeling out loud!

Happy

Sad

Angry

Worried

Calm

Excited

More Feelings We Have

Color each face. Say the feeling out loud!

Surprised

Nervous

Lonely

Proud

Relaxed

Frustrated

MATCH

Match the Feeling to What Helps

Draw a line from each feeling to one thing that can help.

● Angry

get a hug ●

● Worried

share the good news ●

● Sad

talk to someone ●

● Excited

take deep breaths ●

My Feelings Thermometer

A feelings thermometer shows how BIG a feeling is. Green is calm and okay. Yellow is starting to bubble. Red is a very big feeling. Knowing our level helps us pick the right calm-down tool.

RED - Big feeling

YELLOW - Getting bigger

GREEN - Calm & okay

What can I do at each level? Write above.

Where Do I Feel It?

Big feelings live in our bodies too. Anger might feel hot in your chest. Worry might feel like butterflies in your tummy. Color or mark where you feel your feelings.

Draw or color:

-  Hot / angry feelings
-  Fluttery / worried feelings
-  Heavy / sad feelings
-  Calm / good feelings

Today my body feels...

My Feelings Today

● A feeling I felt today was...

● It showed up in my body like this...

● What I did about it was...

Part 2: Whole-Class Calm

Calm is easier when we do it together.

Class Feelings Check-In

Start the day by having each student show or say how they feel. It builds belonging and helps you spot who might need support.

Point to How You Feel

Color each face. Say the feeling out loud!

Good

Calm

Worried

Sad

Frustrated

Excited

Class Calm Signals

Agree on quiet signals the whole class knows, so anyone can ask for calm without words.
Design yours together.

- ☐ A hand signal that means 'I need a breath.'
- ☐ A signal for 'the class needs a reset.'
- ☐ A calm word or chime that starts a breathing break.
- ☐ A signal for 'I need to use the calm corner.'

Our class signals are...

Part 3: Breathing & Movement Breaks

Short resets for busy minds.

Square (Box) Breathing

Slow breathing tells our body it is safe. Trace the shape slowly with your finger while you breathe. Do it 3-5 times.

Box Breathing

1. Trace up one side as you breathe IN for 4.
2. Trace across the top as you HOLD for 4.
3. Trace down as you breathe OUT for 4.
4. Trace across the bottom as you HOLD for 4.
5. Repeat 3-5 times until you feel calmer.

Triangle Breathing

Slow breathing tells our body it is safe. Trace the shape slowly with your finger while you breathe. Do it 3-5 times.

Triangle Breathing

1. Breathe IN as you trace the first side (count 3).
2. HOLD as you trace the second side (count 3).
3. Breathe OUT as you trace the last side (count 3).
4. Go around the triangle slowly 4 times.

Flower & Candle Breathing

Slow breathing tells our body it is safe. Trace the shape slowly with your finger while you breathe. Do it 3-5 times.

Flower Breathing

1. Pretend to smell a flower - breathe IN through your nose.
2. Pretend to cool soup or blow a candle - breathe OUT slowly through your mouth.
3. Trace each petal as you breathe.
4. Notice your shoulders drop as you relax.

Movement Reset Cards

Movement helps release big energy and feelings. Try one for 60 seconds.

- ☐ Stand and stretch tall like a tree, then fold down slow.
- ☐ Shake out your hands, arms, and legs for 10 seconds.
- ☐ March in place slowly, then faster, then slow again.
- ☐ Push your palms together, hold, and release.
- ☐ Roll your shoulders back five times.
- ☐ Take five slow breaths together as a class.

Part 4: Calm Choices Together

We help each other stay calm and kind.

Class Situations (1)

Read each situation. There are many good choices! Think it through, then write or draw what you could do to stay calm and kind.

- 1 The class is getting loud and wound up before a lesson.

What could you do?

- 2 Two classmates are arguing and others are taking sides.

What could you do?

- 3 Someone is having a big feeling and needs space.

What could you do?

Class Situations (2)

Read each situation. There are many good choices! Think it through, then write or draw what you could do to stay calm and kind.

1 The whole class feels nervous before a test.

What could you do?

2 A change in plans upsets several students.

What could you do?

3 Someone new joins and feels left out.

What could you do?

Our Class Calm Agreement

Create shared promises for how your class handles big feelings. Tick the ones you agree on.

- ☐ We treat all feelings with respect.
- ☐ We use calm voices and kind words.
- ☐ We give each other space when needed.
- ☐ We use our calm-down tools before reacting.
- ☐ We ask for help when feelings are too big.
- ☐ We welcome and include everyone.

Part 4: Calm & Reflect

Rest your mind and notice the good.

COLOR

Calm Beach

A quiet place by the gentle sea

Color it in with calm colors that feel good to you.

COLOR

Peaceful Mountains

Breathe in the fresh mountain air

Color it in with calm colors that feel good to you.

COLOR

Cozy Corner

A safe, comfy place to rest

Color it in with calm colors that feel good to you.

My Calm Place

- Describe or draw a place where you feel calm.

- What do you see, hear, and feel there?

Draw your calm place:

A large, empty rectangular box with rounded corners and a thin grey border, intended for drawing a calm place.

Part 5: My Practice Week

Practice makes calm feel natural.

Monday & Tuesday

Monday

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

Tuesday

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

Wednesday & Thursday

Wednesday

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

Thursday

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

Friday & Weekend

Friday

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

Weekend

good

calm

worried

sad

angry

One thing that helped me today:

My Practice Week Review

● Which calm-down tool did I use the most?

● Which tool worked best for me?

● What do I want to keep practicing next week?

My Top Calm-Down Tools

Out of everything you tried, which tools help YOU most? Write your personal top tools so you remember them when a big feeling shows up.

1

2

3

4

5

When I feel calm, I can help others by...

How Far I've Come

Look how much you've learned! Tick everything you can do now (or are practicing).

- ☐ I can name my feelings.
- ☐ I can notice feelings in my body.
- ☐ I know my warning signs for big feelings.
- ☐ I have calm-down tools I can use.
- ☐ I can make calmer choices.
- ☐ I can ask for help when I need it.
- ☐ I can be kind to myself when things are hard.

My Personal Calm-Down Plan

This is YOUR plan for big feelings. Fill it in and keep it somewhere you'll see it. You can update it any time as you learn what helps.

When I notice a big feeling, my body signal is...

Three calm-down tools I will try first are...

A safe person I can talk to is...

Words I can say to myself are...

A calm place I can go is...

Good Things & Gratitude

Noticing good things helps calm our minds and lift our mood. It doesn't erase hard feelings, but it reminds us that good things are here too.

Three good things about today

Someone I'm thankful for - and why

Draw something that makes you smile:

A large, empty rectangular box with rounded corners and a thin grey border, intended for a drawing.

Letter to Myself

- Write a kind letter to yourself for a day you feel a big feeling.

- What do you want to remember?

- What would you tell a friend feeling the same way?

My Growing Skills

● One feeling I understand better now is...

● One thing I can do when it gets big is...

● I feel proud that I can...

Slowing Down My Mind

● When my mind feels busy, I can...

● A quiet thing I enjoy is...

● One slow, calm thing I will do today is...

COLOR

Starry Night

A peaceful, starry sky to unwind under

Color it in with calm colors that feel good to you.

COLOR

Flower Garden

A calm garden bursting with flowers

Color it in with calm colors that feel good to you.

My Notes & Doodles

A series of horizontal lines for writing notes, spanning the width of the page.

My Notes & Doodles

A series of horizontal lines for writing notes, spanning the width of the page.